Crochet

Quick and EZ Helmet – Worsted weight. Adult Medium and Large. Not being much of a crocheter, I planned on sticking to knitted styles, but this happened to catch my eye. It looks like it's pretty easy, even for someone who's limited in crocheting skills.

Knit

1898 Hat – Worsted weight. This is a very popular pattern (and very warm). Earflaps are worked into the hat's nice thick band. The pattern is designed for men, but size can be reduced by using lighter weight yarn and smaller needles. It's also possible to recalculate the number of stitches required in each segment, but this isn't as quick/easy as just changing yarn/needles. See below for a similar multi-size hat titled Look Out.

BUN Hat – Bulky weight. Adult, but should be easy to reduce to a smaller size with different yarn and smaller needles. "It was designed as an easy, quick knit for charity/giving . . . " BUN stands for Bottom Up Neckflap, meant to provide warmth into the neck area, as does one other pattern in this list.

F781 Hood – Worsted weight – Infant 3-6, 6-9, 9-12 months – Pattern from Plymouth Yarn Company

<https://www.ravelry.com/patterns/library/f781-hood>

Child's Winter Helmet - Worsted weight - Child 3-6 years -This is a modified vintage pattern.

<https://www.ravelry.com/patterns/library/childs-winter-helmet>

Chilly Day Balaclava – Aran weight – Ages 0-4 years – This is a DROPS pattern and some people don't like to use DROPS patterns. They feel like they're hard to follow, or difficult, perhaps because they're European and patterns and tend to be less detailed than many we get in the US.

Helmet Hat - Worsted weight – Child and Adult

<https://www.ravelry.com/patterns/library/helmet-hat-5>

Toasty Topper hat - Worsted weight, two strands (gauge shows as 16sts to 4" which is close to bulky) – One size 18" – to fit infant, toddler, or small child. Is hat and scarf all in one. Has to be downloaded from Winter 2007 – Knitty. They rank it as "Tangy" which means it's challenging. It uses short-row shaping, which is probably the reason for that designation.
